

REAL ESTATE WEEKLY

August 10, 2011

Jeffrey E. Levine, chairman of Levine Builders, has been recognized as Builder of the Year by the Metropolitan Council on Jewish Poverty (Met Council). During a luncheon at Guastavino's under the 59th Street Bridge, guests paid tribute to the developer for his work with the Council, a national leader in developing and managing affordable housing for low-income and vulnerable individuals and families throughout New York City. Matthew Lonuzzi, CEO Cheever Development Corporation served as honorary chairman. Event vice-chairs were R. Randy Lee, CEO Leewood Real Estate Group; Joe Ross, CEO Century Coverage Corporation; Joseph C. Shenker, Esq., Chairman of Sullivan & Cromwell LLP; and Kathryn Wylde, CEO of Partnership for New York City. Levine is pictured here with Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver (left) and Met Council CEO William Rapfogel (right).

Photo by Chloe Seldman, Michael Priest Photography.